"It Wi a Up"-What Doos It Hoan? The two houses of the Maryland Legislature have been at loggerheeds as to the proper use of the term "to wind up;" and the following report presents a lucid and somewhat amusing exposition of the subject.

Mr. Williams, from the committee to which was re. erred the bill entitled an act to authorize the American Mutual Insurance Company of Baltimore, to wind up the business of said company; submitted the following can Mutual Insurance Company of Baltimore, to wind up the business of said company; submitted the following REPORT:

The Select Committee to which was referred the bill outitted an act to authorize the Mutual Insurance Company, received from the House of Delegates, with certain amendments of the Senate dissented from, has had the same under consideration, with the reasons for such dissent accompanying the bill, and begs leave to report.

That, although deference to the wishes of the House nduces the committee, in conclusion, to recommend to the Senate to recede from its amendments, yet it avails itself of the occasion to precede that recommendation with a few remarks, in vindication of the Senate from the implied imputation of hypercritism in suggesting the employment of the word "close," with its variations, instead of "wind," "winding" and "wound." Besides, that the use of the latter words seemed to the Senate, if not innaccurate, at least too colloquial for the gravity of a legislative style, this body doubted such use being supported by good authorities.

The House, however, insists that the words "to wind up," ac., are the only words which can completely expreas the idea intended; that it is now not only the appropriate term to express the idea, but that no other word is as well adapted to that end-thus conveying, for the first time the startling intelligence that the language heretefore employed by the Legislature on such subjects has always been either ambiguous or inadequate.

And the House defends the use of these potant expressions by authority of late British law writers, and by received lexicographers. The profession of the law has never been remarkable, either for elegance or even for correctness in its style of writing, with few exceptions. The Monkish Latin and barbarous Norman French, with which their studies are deeply imbued, make their works unsafe guides for the cultivation of language.
They are not thought to resort habitually to the pure fountain of English undefiled.

Further,

American authority in the House of Delegates of Maryland.

But, as if to rebuke this novel interpolation of a meaning into an expression foreign to its long received definitions, the learned editor of Webster's Dictionary of 1852, carefully omits that definition of the phrase "to wind up," inserted in the edition of 1828, placed there without an authority. So that the later Webster, so far from sustaining the meaning relied on by the House, is an authority against it, inasmuch as it knocks away the pillar on which the House rested for that definition.

The meaning contended for is not found in Johnson, Mason's supplement, Walker, the American Dictionary, nor any other Lexicon which the committee has had an apportunity of consulting. The committee is, therefore, justified is its vindication of the Senate, which body assumed that there was no respectable American authority for giving so perverse a meaning to an expression, all of whose legitimate uses and analogies are directly the contrary.

However, the House of Delegates has adonted this no.

the contrary.

However, the House of Delegates has adopted this novelty, and the committee recommends an acquiescence in this adoption by receding from its amendments, in order that the meritorious object of the bill may be accomplished. Henceforth, when in the laws of Maryland, individuals or companies are authorized "to wind up" their business, they are not to suppose that they are wound up for a fresh start, but they are to understand that when they are "wound up," they are actually "NATH. WILLIAMS, JOHN H. SOTHORON, JOHN K. LONGWELL.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL,

THURSDAY, April 28-6 P. M.

The stock market opened heavy this morning, and ris Canal fell off 1/2 per cent; Canton Co., 1/2; Nica-Harlen, %; Parker Vein, ¾; Erie Railroad, 1¾; Phoenix Coal, ¾; Erie Bonds, 1871, ¾; Norwich and Worcester, ¾; Hudson Railroad, 1¾; Panama Railroad, 3. Rochester and Niagara Falls Railroad advanced 1 per cent; Florence and Keyport, 14; Utica and Schenectady Railroad, 3. ars to be an increasing disposition to sell. The market is weak and sickly, and it is evidently imposmible for holders of the leading fancies to sustain prices long enough to put any amount on to other hands. It has for some time past been the impression among specuthe roling rates of interest became reduced, fancy stocks would advance, and an active movement commence. The money market is easier, and loans can be negotiated with great facility; notwithstanding which, quotations for stocks generally range at comparatively low prices. It is true they are much higher than during the height of the panic, but not so high as they have been within the past six months by a very large per cent. They have been worked up to the present standard with a great deal of difficulty, and it will be found more difficult to sustain them where they are. We speak of the market generally, and the exceptions are few and far between. improvement are prominent in Morris Canal, Nicaragua Transit and Parker Vein, and they may prove strong and abundant enough to carry each of them considerably above ruling rates. It may, however, result to the contrary. Other fancies being dull and depressed, the effect on those above named may be of an unfavorable character, and all may steadily depresiate together. The inflation going on in the stock of railroad companies forming I line through this State, has had a tendency to Bustain other railroad stocks at points considerably beyond what would otherwise have been current, and it is sible this influence may continue for a time longer; but it must ultimately be lost. The advance in the mar ket value of the stocks of the central line of railroads is almost wholly artificial, and is so far beyond their actual intrinsic value that we must be prepared for a reaction, and, of course, a very great depreciation. The experience derived from the enormous extension of the railroad sys-2em of New England is sufficient to deter all sensible shrewd men, from involving themselves in this movement. and the result will show that similar causes generally produce similar effects. What has already been realized in New England in regard to the value of railroad property as investments will soon be realized here, and we will then see such changes as will sweep away at least twenty five per cent of their present inflated value. Railroads in every section of the country are con tinually increasing in cost; and are running up their capital and indebtedness at such a rapid rate 2hat ultimately their net income will fall far behind the amount required to pay interest and even ordinary dividends. It has been found that the railroads of New England have increased in cost more rapidly than in gross re ceipts. In 1842, Massachusetts had twelve railroads, extending four hundred and sixty one miles within its limits, which had cost twenty millions of dollars. These roads were operated at an expense of 0.70 cents per mile. The earnings were 1 47-100 cents per mile, leaving an in gome of 0.77 cents per mile. In 1847, there were in the State twenty-one railroads, extending seven hundred and eighty-seven miles-cost forty-one millions of dollars expense of operating 0.76 cents per mile; gross receipts 3.50-100 per mile, leaving an income of 0.74 cents per mile. In 1852, there were thirty-six railroads in Massa. chusetts, extending eleven hundred and fifty miles. Total cost fifty three millions of dollars ; expense of operating D.77 cents per mile ; gross receipts 1.44-100 cents per mile; Seaving on income of 0.67 cents per mile. In 1842, the average cost of railroads in Massachusetts per mile was $44.645 : in 1852, $46.675 : increase $2,030 per mile. This exhibits in a strong light the progress of depreciation in This species of property in Massachusetts. The same movement is going on in this State. Already this class of securities is looked upon with less favor by cautious capitalists; and the time is not far distant when it will be difficult to eke out a dividend in companies which are now considered highly prosperous and legitimately productive.

The receipts at the office of the Assistant Treasurer at This port to-day amounted to $202,606 55 ; payments, for the former, to about eight millions, and, for the later to fourteen and a half millions. The application for an injunction against the Junction Railroad of Ohio, to prevent their building the road west across the Bay of Sandusky, under the Port Clinton charter, was refused by Judge M'Lean, of the United States Court, on Tuesday of this week, at Columbus. This settles the question as to the right to cross navigable waters, and will secure to the lake shore road a short and direct line to Toledo. We understand the junction road will build that portion of their road west of Sandusky buyers at 45c. per lb.

FRUIT.—Sales of 500 boxes bunch raisins were effected adopted the same guage of the Michigan Southern from the west, and those leading east from Cleveland through Pennsylvania, which will enable the several roads to put on a car at the Mississippi, and run through to the city of New York without change. The Philadelphia Ledger of yesterday says :-

The Philadelphia Ledger of yesterday says:—
The new silver coin was paid out of the mint yesterday, for the first time. Adams & Co. drew out $250,000 for the New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore markets. It is the expectation of this enterprising firm to draw out forty or fifty thousand dollars daily for some weeks. At this rate the country will be soon pretty well supplied, and we shall no longer hear complaints of a want of small silver change. As yet, we believe, nothing larger than quarters have been made. The machinery of the mint, we understand, is taxed to its utmost capacity in the manufacturing of this much needed coin. Over two millions of dollars in value of silver have been received to be coined, up to this time, and the amount is daily coming forward.

No interesting changes have occurred in the dry goods trade during the past week. The local inquiry is tolerably animated, especially for fancy articles, which are obtainable at rather lower prices; but the demand from country jobbers is not quite so brisk as was anticipated, though more active than usual at the time of this year. The quantity of seasonable fabrics in the market is ample, particularly of cotton, the production and importations of which have greatly exceeded the wants of the trade, though these have been vastly augmented. Hence cotton goods are depressed and favor purchasers. Woollens are less abundant, but not now in much request, and their former value is barely sustained. This languor in the price of manufactures operates as a check upon transactions, by inducing a belief among buyers that seme considerable depreciation will yet take place in the value of desirable commodities ere the spring terminates. This conviction may be correct as far as articles of a fanciful nature are concerned, but we have strong doubts of any material decline occurring in prices of staple products, because these are comparatively e rare and too stiffly held to deteriorate much during the ensuing month. Brown sheetings and shirtings are in fair supply and moderate request at declining rates, which, however, exhibit no actual falling off since the date of our last review. Bleached goods are rather unsettled, the poorer styles being freely tendered and omewhat sparingly bought, at languid prices, while the finer sorts are scarce and firm, though not extensively dealt in. Cotton flannels are apparently unaltered either as respects demand or value. Denims seil pretty quickly at the figures quoted previously. Both the domestic and export inquiry for drills is slack, at drooping rates. Gingnams are doing very well. The Lancaster Company's stock is all gone, and the Glasgow and Manchester goods are being sold pretty rapidly at 11c. and 10%c. a 11c., respectively. Lawns are without any essential change. Nankeens are not active, but rule firm. Osnaburgs are in better supply and less request, at prices which denote a decided tendency downward. Printing cloths are still rather manimate, though a little more readily purchased at the quotation of last week. Prints are in ample stock and generally poor assortment, while they find very reluctant buyers except at large concessions in prices. Stripes are still very dull and heavy, displaying a drooping tendency. We have no change to notice in ticks, which are neither abundant nor active, though very firm in prices.

The following is a comparative statement of the shipments hence between April 1st and 27th --

Cotton goods, packages...... 513 7,120 6,607
The movements in woollens have not been very large. These goods are in rather moderate supply here, and scarce in the hands of manufacturers; on this account, though they do not find many free buyers, they mainthough they do not find many free buyers, they main-tain their previous prices remarkably well. There is no disposition to press any of them worth carrying over to the autumn season upon the market, and no willingness to sell such on any condition, except at the highest current rates. Blankets are more sought after, and seem to favor factors. The reduction of a shilling per yard in the value of cassimeres has occasioned more activity in these, and there is every probability that the greater part of stock now here will be closed out before the end of the season. Cloths are rare and quiet, though steady. Delaines sell very slowly, at drooping rates. Jonns are in better request, at previous figures. Linears are moderately dealt in at old prices. Flannels rule quiet at unchanged questions. Satinets are sparingly bought, yet appear pretty firm. Desirable makes of tweeds still find a ready mar-penses and interest. We are informed that the contracts now offering to the company justify the belief that they will not only continue as large, but that they will considerably increase.

The steamship Canada, at Halifax from Liverpool, has not brought much commercial intelligence. What she does bring is of a favorable character. Quotations for cottom breadstuffs, and provisions had improved, and the tominic cy still continued upward.

At the second board the market was a little more buoyant, and some of the fancies advanced a fraction. Nicaragua went up ½ per cent; Norwich and Worcester, 1; Hudson Railroad, ½; Eric Railroad, ½; Florence and Keyport, ½.

The Central Railroad Company of New Jersey has declared a semi-annual dividend of three and a half per cent; the New York Manufacturing Company, four per cent; the Nashua and Lowell Railroad, four per cent; ings, we notice shares of the Erie, Paterson and Ramapo, and Junction railroads; of the Metropolitan and St. Nicholas banks, and the State Bank of Illinois; of the Manhattan Fire Insurance Company, and of the Minnesota

MR. EDITOR—A COMMUNICATION IN YOUR PAPER of the 26th inst, asserts that I had agreed to pay the emiters formerly in my employ increased wages after the 1st of May, as there had been a strike, of which I was aware. I said, at that time, that I was willing to pay an advance, but to those only who were worth it—there being but two or three good waiters then in my employ—though I never told any individual that he might consider himself engaged, on any terms. Some of my waiters I had employed when they were glad to work for half the wages now demanded; but as soon as they began to know their duties, and had attained some proficiency, they demanded higher wages, and it was granted, but having no reference to the present strike. Some that were in my employ I would have kept, had I not made a complete change in the complexion of my waiters. I boldly say that this step was taken, not because higher wages was marked decrease in my receipts, I found my customers daily finding fault with the inattention of my waitors; so that, in order to please them, and protect myself. I was compelled te make a complete change—and it works admirably.
